

The Charity Stand Down Hour:

What it is and why we need you

There is one simple way where your company can make a massive difference to those within our sector who need a helping hand.

The Charity Stand Down Hour is facilitated through your payroll system and all you and your staff have to do is collaborate to offer just one hour of your salary to the EIC.

RWE have begun the revolution and you could be the next business to make a big difference. We need you to champion this initiative to your staff. The size of your organisation doesn't matter it is the collective effort of you and your employees which makes a difference to our sector.

Your hour can provide counselling sessions, modified wheelchairs, hospital transportation or support someone's mortgage while they get back on their feet. Most importantly, your Charity Stand Down Hour will help the EIC to continue to support the electrical and energy sector.

For more information on how to enrol your company into The Charity Stand Down Hour please contact Tessa Ogle on tessa.ogle@electricalcharity.org
